Compaira.

“Effective resourcing and recruiting for delivery teams are essential for software consultancies like ours. In our experience, having the right technical skills isn’t enough to make a team successful. Our most successful project delivery teams have complementary personalities and work behaviours which is hard to figure out without expensive trial and error exercises.

The Compaira platform’s modelling and analytics give us a window to see behavioural insights that we haven’t had available before. We’ve used these insights to give us a second opinion on our team evaluations and allocations. Overall, our teams work, communicate, and collaborate better than before, and our project delivery results have improved.”

– Daniel Oreta, Sales Director
